DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vander Wielen et al. (U.S. 4,720,415).

See the abstract and Figure 2A.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2, 3, 4, 5, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vander Wielen et al. (U.S. 4,720,415) in view of Schleinz et al. (U.S. 5,612,118).

Vander Wielen et al. teaches a gathered top layer joined to an elastic layer. Schleinz et al. teaches that a joined layer can be gathered by elastic fibers that are heat shrunk (col. 8, lines 1-10). The instant invention claims the use of elastic fibers, which heat shrink to form a gathered web. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use heat shrink fibers to gather the web of Vander Wielen et al. because of the teaching of Schleinz et al. that heat shrinking can be used instead of elastic expansion before bonding in order to construct a gathered web laminate. Selection of specific fiber density and degree of elastic expansion is dependent on the final application and is taken as being within the ordinary skill of the art absent unexpected results.

5. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vander Wielen et al. in view of Schleinz et al. as applied to claims 1-5 and 8 above, and further in view of Zelazoski et al. (U.S. 5,536,555).

Zelazoski et al. teaches putting holes in gathered webs in order to allow good fluid intake rates (col. 2, lines 1-15). The instant invention claims a gathered web with perforations. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have perforated the web of Vander Wielen et al. in view of Schleinz et al. in order to have good fluid intake because of the teachings of Zelazoski et al.
